When you think of the 1990s and early 2000s, the name Cameron Diaz instantly pops up in your mind. From her radiant smile in There's Something About Mary to her iconic role as the adventurous Shannon in Charlie's Angels, Diaz has left an indelible mark on Hollywood. But beyond the blockbuster hits, what other films has Cameron Diaz been in? This comprehensive guide explores every movie, cameo, and voice role that has shaped her journey from a fresh-faced model to a beloved actress.

Early Beginnings: From Pageant Queen to Hollywood Debut

Modeling and Pageant Success

Before the cameras ever captured her on-screen charisma, Cameron Diaz was a celebrated beauty queen. In 1989, at the age of 19, she won the Miss California USA title and later represented the state at the Miss USA pageant. Her modeling career quickly took off, landing her spots in Sports Illustrated and People magazine. These early experiences honed her confidence and gave her a taste of the entertainment world.

First TV Appearances

Diaz's on-screen journey began on television. In 1993, she made a cameo in the sitcom Seinfeld, playing a character named "Cindy." The brief appearance showcased her natural comedic timing and hinted at the potential that would later flourish in feature films.

Breakthrough: The Mask (1994)

Diaz's first major film role came in The Mask (1994), where she starred opposite Jim Carrey. Portraying the love interest Carla, Diaz delivered a performance that balanced humor with genuine warmth. The film's success catapulted her into the spotlight and opened doors to more prominent roles.

Breakthrough and Rise to Stardom (1995–2000)

Romantic Comedy Gold: There's Something About Mary (1998)

In 1998, Diaz took on the role of Mary in the comedy directed by the Farrelly brothers. The film's outrageous humor and Diaz's comedic prowess earned her a nomination for the Golden Globe Award for Best Actress. It became one of the highest-grossing comedies of the decade.

Action-Adventure: Charlie's Angels (2000)

Diaz's versatility shone in Charlie's Angels, where she played the daring Shannon. The film's blend of action, humor, and strong female leads resonated with audiences worldwide. Diaz's performance earned her a Teen Choice Award nomination for Choice Actress.
